

The Arawa Waterpark welcomed the public during their “Party Expo”

Thursday evening offered island families a nice change of pace as the Arawa Waterpark in Moko opened their doors to display what a perfect place it is for the next family celebration or company party. Working with a number of local vendors that provide anything from party rentals to entertainment they proved that whether the function should be fun and funky or elegant and refined, the park and their partners have the know how to make it unique. Visitors to the expo could sample their excellent barbecue at excellent prices, get price lists, and talk with party organizers about their next important event, and some remarkably skilled young clowns from Party Animals and Pinocchio provided plenty of laughs!

Planning a big event is usually an extremely stressful experience when one tries to do it on their own, but the people at Arawa Waterpark showed that it needed be, and with packages for every budget. Aruba is an island that loves parties, whatever the occasion, and now they have a new venue that makes it easy.